Dear Hiring Manager,

I’m writing to apply for the Product Owner, Payments role because I'm confident it's work I can do well.

For over a decade I have run my own business, which meant owning much of the product owner function: understanding what clients needed, translating those needs cross-functionally, setting priorities, managing risk, and delivering solutions.

Part of that was also managing invoicing and payment collection through Stripe, so I've worked with payment collection systems as a user and would bring that perspective to a team building them.

I'm also someone who works fluently with AI tools, using them daily as a force multiplier and thinking partner. Paired with a Computer Science degree I'm completing at UMKC, I have a unique combination of business experience and technical fluency that would be ideal for this role.

I'd welcome the opportunity to talk further.

Thank you for your consideration,

Tyler Prince
